Focus Group Evaluation of “Secret Feelings”: A Depression Fotonovela for Latinos with Limited English Proficiency Leopoldo J. Cabassa, Sandra Contreras, Rebeca Aragón, Gregory B. Molina, Melvin Baron

1. Stigma, lack of knowledge, misconceptions about treatments, and cultural norms about help-seeking play an important role in how Latinos with limited English proficiency (LEP) seek and engage in depression care.
   a. T
   b. F

2. According to Kreuter & Haughton, health information that integrates ___________ and ___________ elements of the audience can enhance the acceptability and relevance of the information.
   a. Ethnic, gender
   b. Cultural, linguistic
   c. Racial, linguistic
   d. Socioeconomic, cultural

3. Latinos with depression are more likely than non-Latino Whites to utilize mental health services, continue mental health treatments, and to receive depression care of high quality.
   a. T
   b. F

4. Analysis revealed that the fotonovela, “Secret Feelings,” was viewed as a useful tool for helping someone with depression ___________ that they have a problem that requires professional help.
   a. Share
   b. Discuss
   c. Accept
   d. Forget
5. According to Ritterfeld & Jin, audience engagement and identification as well as interpersonal communication help readers: accept new information, challenge maladaptive social norms and beliefs, and allow them to consider new ____________
   a. Behavioral options
   b. Consequences
   c. Behavioral modifications
   d. Difficulties

6. The entertainment-education strategies embedded in “Secret Feelings” include all of the following except:
   a. Use of a dramatic story with salient cultural themes and norms
   b. Use of a marketing approach to sell antidepressant medications
   c. Development of characters that resemble the audience
   d. Use of entertaining visuals

7. Several studies have found that __________ concerns about antidepressant medications are common among Latinos and are linked to delays in seeking help, treatment dropout, and lack of medication adherence.
   a. Monetary
   b. Personal
   c. Wellness
   d. Addiction

8. Participants reactions to “Secret Feelings” seemed to cultivate a sense of __________ in recognizing depression in others and in themselves.
   a. Confusion
   b. Self-efficacy
   c. Despair
   d. Responsibility

9. Latinos addiction concerns toward antidepressant medications are tied to fears of dependency, loss of control,_________ and beliefs that these medications make people feel drugged, numb, and unable to function.
   a. Physical harm
   b. Death
   c. Anger
   d. Suicide

10. Fotonovelas, like “Secret Feelings,” can be used by ____________, doctors and mental health providers to initiate a dialogue with Latino clients to learn about a health condition and treatment options.
    a. Bus drivers
    b. Strangers
    c. Policemen
    d. Community health workers