Impact Factor Trend

Note: With the 2020 Impact Factor, Clarivate has introduced Early Access content in Journal Citation Reports to more accurately reflect the dynamic citation environment of rapid online publication, phasing in further changes over three years.

This means that the 2020 Impact Factor prioritized the online publication date rather than the print publication date to calculate citations to a journal in 2020 (we only see changes in the numerator of the Impact Factor equation). The 2021 Impact Factor (published in June 2022) will prioritize the online publication date for the citing article data (numerator) as well as half the denominator data (2020 citable items). The 2022 Impact Factor (published in June 2023) will prioritize the online publication date for both the citing (numerator) and cited (denominator) article data in the Impact Factor equation.

Journal Self-Citations

The tables show the contribution of the journal's self-citations to its Impact Factor. Self-citations should not account for more than 15% of a journal's total cites.

Self Cites to Years Used in Impact Factor Calculation	19
Self-citation rate	1.844%

Note: This may not reflect the total JCR count. WoS citation counts can be different than JCR citation counts because WoS is a dynamic, constantly updated database and JCR is a snapshot of a point in time. Clarivate Analytics adds citations to the JCR that were missed in WoS due to author error in citing, misspelled journal names, etc.
