SOPHE Affiliate Organization Membership

The Society for Public Health Education is a nonprofit association that supports leaders in public health, health education and promotion to advance healthy and equitable communities across the globe. SOPHE members work in health care settings, communities, organizations, schools, universities, worksites, and in local, state and federal government agencies.

SOPHE's Affiliate Organization Memberships offer exclusive benefits and savings on advertising and marketing – opportunities to showcase your products and services.

A SOPHE affiliation can provide a vital link to students studying public health, undergraduate and graduate faculty, and practitioners and professionals working in health promotion and education.

Affiliate Organization Members are recognized as a leading and valuable partner dedicated to improving the health of children and adults.
